

Implicit Bias Training

The University Libraries’ Reckoning Initiative is a library-wide effort to address systemic inequality and racism within the organization, higher education, and the profession. The Reckoning Initiative represents a commitment to move beyond platitudes into action with a full recognition that this work requires responsibility and ownership from everyone in the organization. As a new student employee, we ask that you engage with and complete the following training on Implicit Bias to better understand the behavioral, cultural, and systemic factors that activate bias and engender inequitable practices.

To begin the training, click here to watch the 8 minute and 9 second video. Electronically sign your name and enter your PID to acknowledge completion.
